

THE PINK WAVE
8th March 2018
Uka Tarsadia University

On second Thursday of upbeat March 2018, International women's day, the enthusiast women of Maliba Pharmacy College, Uka Tarsadia University set out to hold a pink parade. All the girls dressed in pink attire gathered at entrance gate of university. Also women cell of MPC with them to strengthen the power. About 30 girls from MPC, all beautified in pink dresses, assembled to form 3 lines. Many of them also prepared handmade posters and slogans to exhibit their excitement about the event. Girls were ornamented in same colour of enthusiasm, walked to the end corner of the university which is almost 1-2 kms long path from main gate. And kept on singing slogans and songs about women education and empowerment. The whole idea was to ignite inner lordship of entire womanhood and be proud of it. When rest of the people came out to see the event, it seemed like a pretty pink wave was going around the university with spark of energy no could ever possess. At the end, chocolates and sweets were distributed to all the girls to conclude the event.
